INTERIORS

Nicole Fuller is the Founder and Creative Director of Nicole Fuller Interiors, a New York based multi-faceted interior design company that specializes in high-end residential and commercial projects in the US and abroad. Fuller has four International Property awards, two nominations for London's prestigious Andrew Martin Designer of the Year award, and was listed by Vogue Magazine as an Interior Design Talent to Watch.

A passionate designer, Fuller has acquired a list of prestigious clients who have an unwavering taste for luxury and an uncompromising attitude toward high-quality design. Fuller's primary objective is that her clients love the look and feel of their surroundings, and that each space she creates is purposeful and livable. She layers classic elements with contemporary pieces to create timeless, bespoke interiors. Continually allured with the ever-changing market of products and technology, Fuller is particularly adept at exploring new ways of using today's materials in original and innovative ways. It is this refusal to accept the status quo which drives her dramatic and powerful sense of style.

Fuller's work has covered a broad spectrum, from residential interiors to commercial and hospitality spaces, as well as collaborations with top real estate developers. Notable residential projects include New York's historic Stanhope Hotel and a 30,000 square foot home in Suffern, New York. Fuller works with developers regularly to produce outstanding real estate offerings including the recent condo development at 17 East 12th Street. Additional recently completed projects include Zac Posen's NYC Atelier, the Gianvito Rossi showroom, and a private home in East Hampton.

In addition to interior design, Fuller manages her own luxury furniture and accessories collection, Isabella Wolfe Designs, which is represented at JF Chen in Los Angeles. This collection of custom designed pieces brings life to any room and allows Fuller to expand her unique talents into new areas of the design industry.

Fuller has collaborated in product development with a number of prestigious global brands. She recently launched a collection of rugs for The Rug Company and has projects in the works with Kohler and Ann Sacks. She also designs beds for British bedmaking brand, Savoir.
